

Data protection training

The legal framework and risks surrounding data use, management and security has never been more complex.

Do you know how long personal data is used by your organisation in the day to day running of the business? Are your employees aware of how a data breach should be dealt with? Do your employees know how to deal with a response from an individual for a copy of personal data? Failure to comply with the laws surrounding the use of personal data can lead to severe penalties being imposed by the regulator and significantly damage your reputation.

Our training packages can help you avoid these pitfalls.

How DWF can help you piece together compliance

The data protection regulator has expressed that the key to compliance with General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is awareness and education within organisations.

Now is the time to ensure that the people in your organisation are fully trained on all aspects of GDPR and that there is an awareness of what actions are required to manage the risks associated with handling personal data.

How can we help?

Whether in the private or public sector our data protection and privacy specialists understand the challenges you face. We have created some training options to help you get to grips with data protection law as we go through the biggest shake up in the field for decades.

We will provide you with a detailed examination of the new law, the key changes, areas of uncertainty and actions your organisation should take now to ensure compliance.

Benefits

- Empowering you to make informed business decisions about how you can best prepare and protect against risk and safeguard personal data your business holds.
- Giving you the peace of mind that you are in the best possible position to protect your data and that your business will be in line with GDPR changes.
- Flexible training offering for your team, either in-house or in a DWF office of your choosing.
- Interactive training run by expert legal data protection professionals, or even from the comfort of your desk.

Here's a brief overview of our training offering:
